

Integration of the Arts

The Performing Arts Program at Ekya Schools integrates the arts by providing opportunities for students to explore space through body movement activities, recognise patterns through the representation of sound and in the visual space and explore the visual aspects of dance forms. This approach promotes self-expression, creativity, and interdisciplinary learning.

Performances in Action

Throughout the program, students are encouraged to take ownership of their learning and to develop a sense of self-discipline and commitment to their craft. It is an essential part of a well-rounded education that prepares students for success in all aspects of their lives.

In addition to studio interactions and campus explorations in story telling and expression with familiar peers, students are introduced to outbound learning opportunities. These include storytelling sessions, visits to theatres and studios, and interactions with professionals in the performing arts who share their experiences and insights.

FIND New Ways to Learn

Our innovative learning model goes beyond conventional norms. We apply interdisciplinary skills to think differently and solve real-world problems.

We equip students with skills such as problem-solving, collaboration, critical thinking, reflection and global awareness.

Students engage in authentic tasks and challenges to investigate each learning area deeply and transfer their learning to the environment around them.
